A PASSING WISH.

O, for the life of a Gipsy!
A strong-armed, bare-foot girl;
And to have the wind for a waiting maid
To keep my hair in curl;
To bring me scent of the violet,
And the red rose and the pink;
And at night to spread my grassy bed—
Ah! wouldn't it be divine?

O, for the life of a Gipsy!
So gloriously free;
Thro' the world to roam, and to find a home
'Neath every greenwood tree;
To milk my cow in the meadow;
Wherever she chanced to stand;
And to have my corn-fields planted
By every lad in the land!

O, for the life of a Gipsy!
With the dew to fringe my gown;
And to have the sun for a sweetheart
To come and kiss me brown;
To take each little chubby cheek
That I chose, and call her sting;
And teach her to tramp from camp to camp—
Ah! wouldn't it be divine?

O, for the life of a Gipsy!
To lie in the lazy shades;
And to predict sweet fairings
To all the village maids;
To give them cups of pretty flowers
And shawls of woven white,
And troops of lovers to sing them songs
At their window panes at night!

O, for the life of a Gipsy!
To hunt the hare for play;
And to take my trap on my shoulder
And hie away and away—
Away to the tents by the water,
When the stars begin to shine—
To my glad wild crew, with hearts as true—
Ah! wouldn't it be divine?

O, for the life of a Gipsy!
To be up at the dawning gray;
And to have my dog, like my shadow,
Beside me all the day;
To have a hut of plaited straw,
And a cloak of scarlet dye,
And shout like a light through the glens at night,
And make the owlets cry!

O, for the life of a Gipsy!
To roam the wide world through;
To have the wind for a wailing maid,
And the sun for a sweetheart true;
To say to my restless conscience,
Be still; you are no more mine;
And so hold my heart beneath my art—
Ah! wouldn't it be divine?

ALICE CAREY.

An Old-fashioned Teacher.

Patrick, do you know your letters?
Yes, sur.
Say them, then.
I know them by sight, but I don't know their names.
Well, that is A.
How are you A.
You must not speak in that way.
In what way shall I speak then, sir?
Say what I say.
Yes, sur.
This is B.
Sure an' is that B; I thought it was an ox-yoke.
What was that last letter I showed you?
I can't remember, sir.
What bird is it that lays honey and stings?
It is a wasp, sir.
No, it is a bee.
So it is, and it looks like an ox yoke.
What letter is that third one on the page?
I don't know, sir.
What do I do when I look at you?
I shouldn't like to say, sur.
I want you to tell me, sir.
I am afraid you will lick me, sur.
Tell me what I do when I look at you.
Well, sir, you squint.
Can't you say C without the squint?
Yes, sur.
Say it then.
C without the squint.
What is the name of the next letter?
I don't know, sur, I never saw it before.
It is D for dance, just like yourself; say that.
D for dance, just like yourself.
Take your seat, and the spelling class will come and spell. Spell cat.
C-a t—catfish.
Taint right. Now spell tub.
T-u-b—wash tub.
Taint right. Now spell frog.
F-r-o-g—bull-frog.
'Taint right. Now go to your seat and study, and the Geography class will come up and say their lessons.
James, where does the sun rise?
I don't know, sur; we never get up in time to see the performance at our house.
Next; where does the sun rise?
Down in our lot, sir.
Next; where does the sun rise?
In the east, sir.
What makes the sun rise in the east?
Yeast will make any thing rise.

A MASTER OF ALL TRADES.—A western paper contains the following advertisement: "Wants a situation; a practical printer, who is competent to take charge of any department in a printing and publishing house. Would accept a professorship in any of the academies. Has no objection to teach ornamental printing and penmanship, geometry, trigonometry and many other sciences. Is particularly suited to act as a pastor to a small evangelical church or as a local preacher. He would have no objection to form a small but select class of interesting young ladies to instruct in the highest branches. To a dentist or a chiropodist he would be invaluable, as he can do almost anything. Would cheerfully accept a position as a bass or tenor singer in a choir. Would board with a family, if decidedly pious. For further particulars inquire at Brown's saloon."

The Huntingdon & Broad Top R. R.

The following is the Seventeenth Annual Report of the Directors of the Huntingdon and Broad Top Mountain Railroad and Coal Company:

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS: The Managers submit to you the following report of the receipts, expenditures and business of your Railway, for the year ending December 31st. 1869.

EARNINGS.

From freight on Coal,	$215,752 59
Freight on Merchandise,	31,579 42
Iron Ore and Limestone,	15,070 28
Passengers,	27,858 89
Rent of Mines,	2,993 91
Rent of Houses,	909 50
U. S. Mail,	2,460 00
Adams Express Company,	720 00
Miscellaneous,	3,828 72
	$301,184 31

EXPENSES.

For Motive Power,	$84,245 72
Maintenance of way,	55,822 61
Maintenance of Cars,	4,944 19
Conducting Transportation,	35,301 57
Mines,	363 75
Taxes,	710 88
	$181,388 72
Net earnings for the year 1869,	$119,795 59

The total amount of earnings, compared with last year, is:

1869,	$301,184 31
1868,	212,666 03
Increase in 1869,	$88,518 28

The following items exhibit the sources from which the above increase in revenue has been derived:

Coal,	$70,188 69
Merchandise,	4,559 18
Passengers,	3,186 86
Iron Ore,	9,585 12
Miscellaneous;	998 36
Increase as above stated;	$88,518 28

The expenses in 1869 were 60.22 per cent. of the gross receipts, being 17.09 per cent. less than in 1868; and the net earnings in 1869 were increased 41.02 per cent, over those of 1868.

The number of tons of freight moved over your railway last year was 417,182 tons, of which 360,778 tons were coal; and the whole tonnage of 1869 exceeds that of the previous year 109,122 tons, of which increase, 79,842 tons were coal. The results of the business of the past year, as shown by the foregoing statements, cannot fail to be gratifying to you:

The policy announced in the last annual report, "of maintaining the Road and its Rolling Stock, not only in a good condition; but in one that should be continually improving," has been persistently adhered to, and enlarged, so as to embrace the gradual filling up of all the smaller trestle-works, on the line of the Road. At two of the trestles, a large amount of this work has already been done. This plan of progressive improvement has added considerably to the expenditures of the Maintenance of Way Department, but has, on the other hand, greatly increased the safety and stability of the road and its superstructures, and also contributed largely to its more economical operation.

One new first-class ten-wheel engine built by M. Baird & Co; and one good second class locomotive have been added to the rolling stock of the road during the past year:

The First Mortgage Bonds of the Company, amounting to $416,000, will fall due on the 30th day of September next. Originally, the bonds issued under this mortgage amounted to $500,000, but subsequently 168 bonds of the series for $500 each, were surrendered to the Company in exchange for other bonds, and cancelled, thus reducing the amount of the loan to the first-named sum. At various times, however, scrip has been issued for the interest on this loan, the amount of which now outstanding is $71,325, a sum nearly equal to the amount of the cancelled bonds:

Efforts are being made by your Managers to sell a portion of the coal lands belonging to the Company, for the purpose of paying off this scrip, and if they are successful, it will leave only the bonds to be arranged for; and as the rate of interest is 7 per cent. per annum on these bonds, your managers are of the opinion that an arrangement can be made with the holders thereof, before maturity, to extend the time of payment for twenty years, upon the condition that the Company will continue to pay the same rate of interest, free from United States and States taxes. Your managers, therefore, recommend that this plan for the extension of the said loan be offered to the respective holders of the said bonds.

All of the Mine Bonds, except ten thousand dollars, have been surrendered and cancelled, and in lieu thereof an equal amount of the Consolidated Bonds has been issued.

An increase in the amount of your preferred shares will be necessary to enable the Company to carry out the terms of settlement with its creditors. The present limit of these shares is $300,000. Your managers recommend that Legislative authority be obtained to increase that amount to $500,000.

The number of coal cars, supplied jointly by the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Companies has been, and is, entirely too small to satisfy the wants of a constantly augmenting coal tonnage, and but for this obstacle during the past year, the coal shipments on your road would have exceeded the amount reached fully 100,000 tons. Efforts are now being made, with some probability of success, to induce those Companies to add, at once, 700 more cars to the number now in service.

Hitherto, your railway has been almost exclusively a coal-carrying road. Located far in the interior, its tonnage has mostly been destined, over long lines of connecting roads to the seaboard for a market, which, when reached, has always been fluctuating and uncertain, and generally in the rates obtained unremunerative. It has had but little local tonnage and a very limited passenger travel. While these unfavorable conditions lasted, it was hardly to be expected that much prosperity could be achieved. They did endure for a long time, and financial troubles began, threatening, until recently, the utter destruction of the value of your shares. Appearances now indicate, however, that some of these adverse conditions are being changed, and seem to warrant the belief that they will continue to grow more favorable, until the reality, as well as the shadow of the calamity threatened, shall have passed away. Recent examinations of the region through which your railway extends, have proven beyond the possibility of contradiction the existence of immense quantities of Iron Ore and Limestone, of the very best description, lying in such close proximity to the coal, for their economic combination in the furnace, that there is no longer room for a doubt as to the pre-eminent advantages nature has conferred upon this section for the cheap manufacture of pig metal. Some of the largest capitalists in the country have been drawn to this locality already, and the furnace that went into blast in July last, at Riddlesburg, has been an unexampled success. Other furnaces are speedily to be erected, and it is now a recognized fact, that nowhere in the State can good Iron be made with less difficulty and expense than in the "Broad Top Region." A new field, therefore, of vast extent, for the manufacture of iron, has been opened on the line of your railway, and the activities which have already grown out of this business, are fast creating a Local Tonnage of much value, without which it is difficult for any road to be permanently prosperous. This Iron interest though less than a year old, is now next in value to your coal tonnage. Its advent has been sudden, but its importance is real, and it deserves the most attention and support your Company can give in aid of its future extension and growth. There is also another change about taking place which will improve the condition of your railway for getting its coal tonnage to the seaboard. The change referred to is, that an additional outlet from the lower terminus of your road to tide-water is about being constructed under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Canal Company. This Company will exceed their original design of simply enlarging their canal from Huntingdon, they having recently decided to make it a slack-water navigation. When this work is completed, a new and cheap route will be provided for large quantities of Broad Top Coal to points on tide-water that are now supplied with Bituminous Coal from other sections of the country. It is, therefore, mainly to these new enterprises and developments that the chief expectations of a prosperous future for your railway are to be referred. At present, however, it would probably be premature to indulge in any predictions as to the possibilities of the future, or to say what further financial trouble your Company must pass through before prosperity is reached; but your managers feel justified in expressing the belief that the period of the greatest difficulties has been passed, and that there are substantial evidences for this conviction in the present improved condition of the Company.

A movement has lately been made by the citizens of Bedford County and others, to construct a railroad from the town of Bedford to Mount Dallas, to connect at the latter place with your railway. They propose building this road under the charter of the "Bedford and Bridgeport Railroad Company," and when it is finished, to lease it to your Company. It is very desirable and important that this railroad should be built, but as no definite plan or route has yet been agreed upon, it is probable that some time will elapse before anything practical is accomplished.

In conclusion, your managers take pleasure in acknowledging that the satisfactory results of the business of your railway during the past year are largely due to the efficient management of J. McKillips, Esq., Superintendent, and to John Fulton, Esq., Resident Engineer.

B. ANDREWS KNIGHT, Feb. 1, 1870. President.

AFFECTION OF A MOTHER.—At Louisiana, Missouri, a few weeks ago, a skiff containing a mother and her two children, was seen battling its way from the Illinois shore, through the grinding, crushing fields of ice, as they pushed against and piled upon each other, swept along by the irresistible current. She was in search of her four sons, taken from her some twelve months ago by her husband, who had married a woman in Missouri, and was living on the point between Salt river and the Mississippi. The brave woman, upon reaching this shore, obtained an officer, and proceeded on the search for her boys. Arriving at the residence of their father, he was found to be absent "hog hunting." The joy of the little boys is said to have been indescribable when they saw their mother, from whom they had been separated so many months. They had suffered greatly from ague and fever, and want of food, and were nearly destitute of clothing, their caps being made of green coon skins. The brave woman rescued her boys and has them now with her at home, Griggsville, Illinois, where she resides. Her name is Lucy A. Johnson.

Hope writes the poetry of the boy, memory that of the man.

The Big Trees of California.

Wesley J. Rose, Esq., a correspondent of the Johnstown Tribune, speaks of the big trees in California as follows:

These trees are found in the San Antonia branch of the Calvaras River, over four thousand feet above the level of the sea. About sixty acres are covered with timber, but there are about one hundred and three enormous trees. Twenty of them exceed twenty feet through each one. The stump of one measures thirty-two feet across and the trunk of others are hollow and men can ride on horseback in and out with ease. The first is called "The Father of the Forest," and is 110 feet in circumference. "The Mother of the Forest" is 84 feet round and 325 feet high. "The Husband" and "Wife" are each 65 feet round and 330 feet high. The "Burnt Tree" is 39 feet across and 330 feet high. "Hercules" is 95 feet round and 325 feet high. The "Hermit" sixty feet in circumference and three hundred and eighteen feet high; the "Old Maid"—this is a leaning tree with its top broken off, but is still two hundred and sixty-one feet high and fifty-nine feet in circumference; a short distance from this is the "Old Bachelor," a hard looking old curse, two hundred and ninety-eight feet high and sixty feet circumference; a few steps from this is "Pioneer's Cabin," "The Siamese Twins." These start with one stem and about forty or fifty feet up part into two beautiful trees. They are about three hundred feet high. Then the "Guardian," three hundred and twenty feet high and eighty-one feet diameter; "Mother and Son," another pretty sight, the former three hundred and fifteen feet, the latter three hundred and two, and altogether measure ninety-three feet in circumference; the "Horseback Ride," a laying tree, one hundred and fifty feet long and hollow from end to end. "Uncle Tom's Cabin"—this tree is hollow, and on the bottom of it twenty persons could stand at once. It is three hundred and five feet high and ninety-one feet circumference. The "Pride of the Forest" is thought to be the finest sight of the grove. It is so straight and well proportioned; but the "Beauty of the Forest" is fully as beautiful. It is three hundred and seven feet high and sixty-five feet circumference. The Two Guardsmen" stand close by the entrance. They are three hundred feet high, one sixty-five and the other sixty-nine feet circumference. "The Three Graces" are beautiful. Together they measure ninety two feet circumference and five hundred and ninety-five feet high.

Women on the Bench.

WOMEN JUDGES IN WYOMING TERRITORY.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette writes from Wyoming territory:

Wyoming territory is governed by J. A. Campbell, late of Ohio, and it is this territory that women suffrage reigns in all its glory. There women sit on juries and administer laws. The last grand jury drawn at Laramie shows a clear majority of female names. A short time since, the Governor appointed several ladies justices of the peace, and they have entered upon the duties of their offices. One of the new justices is for the mining region at South Pass City. The single miners seem to like their female judges, and pay great respect in the Court. The South Pass News gives this account of a case recently tried before Mrs. Judge Morris:

"Much interest is maintained in a trial held in our city on Wednesday last, not so much from the importance of the case as from its novel character. It was a prosecution against one of the officers of Carter county, to recover a fine provided by the law making the new county of Sweetwater, in case certain officers should fail to deliver over the records of their offices to their successors. The proceeding was commenced before Mrs. E. Morris, the newly appointed and qualified justice of the peace, and much interest was manifested to witness a judicial proceeding with a woman for judge. The trial was held in the presence of a crowded house, and it must be admitted that in the manner of holding court our justice might well be taken for an example in point of dignity and propriety of action and deportment. The case was dismissed by Justice Morris, on the ground that she, being the successor of the accused herself, could not with propriety try the case, as being a party interested. This, whether technically correct or not, shows a delicacy of feeling in regard to the rights of others very creditable to the head and heart of our new official, and which is eminently worthy of imitation.

"There is one Wyoman; female judges who administers the police affairs of a certain young city, and who is said to have caused great emotion by the severity of her judgments on offenders. If you take a drop too much of 'crather,' up you go for the full extent of the law, and no amount of pleading or promise will soften a judicial heart. Then if a weak sister is caught, there is an end of her sinning, for she is locked up hard and fast, and kept in durance vile until she is ready to migrate to other lands, where no female judges are."

INJURY.—A little wrong done to another is a great injury done to ourselves. The severest punishment of an injury is the consciousness of having done it, and no man suffers more than he that is turned over to the pain of repentance.

Interesting Reports.

We give room in this issue to the reports of the President and Resident Engineer of the Huntingdon & Broad Top Railroad Co., believing that a perusal of the same will be a source of pleasure and benefit to our readers.—We are always interested in home and vicinity improvements, and when such a report as that of the President of this company greets our gaze, we cannot withhold it from our readers, the most of whom are interested in all that pertains to our home welfare.—We are particularly pleased to learn from the report that the road, which has heretofore been almost exclusively a coal-carrying railway, is gradually becoming equally important as a local tonnage road, and that large quantities of the newly discovered iron ore is being shipped to neighboring counties, and better still, the manufactured pig metal is also finding an outlet from the furnace at Riddlesburg over the road, with fair prospects of the manufactured iron of new furnaces going thereby also. This is truly an encouraging prospect for the Broad Top Region, and is well adapted to reviving the once drooping interest of the stock of the road. When the enlargement of the Penn'a. Canal is completed, and Huntingdon is made the headwater of navigation, we may expect a reflex influence of the trade at Broad Top to manifest itself at the Huntingdon wharves, and this is what we anxiously hope for. Read the report and see what is being done.

COLORED POPULATION AND VOTE.—There are in this State about 60,000 colored citizens who, calculating one to six as voters, can cast 10,000 votes. It is probable, however, that not more than 7,000 or 8,000 votes will be cast; but it is safe to calculate that more than nine tenths of these will vote the Republican ticket, securing its success beyond a doubt, if they do not take the advice of the guerrillas to assist the Democracy.

Ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment.

Message From The President.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30, '70.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:—It is unusual to notify the two houses of Congress by message of the promulgation by proclamation of the Secretary of State of the ratification of a constitutional amendment. In view, however, of the vast importance of the Fifteenth Amendment of the Constitution this day declared a part of that revered instrument, I deem a departure from the usual custom justifiable. A measure which makes at once four millions of people voters, who were heretofore declared by the highest tribunal in the land not citizens of the United States nor eligible to become so, with the assertion that at the time of the Declaration of Independence the opinion was fixed and universal in the civilized portion of the white race and regarded as an axiom in morals as well as in politics, that black men had no rights which white men were bound to respect, is indeed a measure of grander importance than any other one act of the kind from the foundation of our free Government to the present time.

Institutions like ours, in which all power is derived directly from the people, must depend mainly upon their intelligence, patriotism and industry. I call the attention, therefore, of the newly enfranchised race to the importance of their striving in every honorable manner, to make themselves worthy of their new privilege. To the race more favored heretofore by our laws I would say, withhold no legal privilege of advancement to the new citizens. The framers of our Constitution firmly believed that a republican form of government could not endure without intelligence and education generally diffused among the people. The Father of his country, in his farewell address, used this language: "Promote then, as a matter of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge. In proportion as the structure of the government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened." In his first annual message to Congress, the same views were forcibly presented, and are again urged in his eighth message.

I repeat that the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution completes the greatest civil change and constitutes the most important event that has occurred since the nation came into life. The change will be beneficial in proportion to the heed that is given to the urgent recommendations of Washington. If these recommendations were important then with a population of but a few millions, how much more important now with a population of forty millions and increasing at a rapid ratio? I would therefore call upon Congress to take all means within their constitutional power to promote and encourage popular education throughout the country, and upon the people everywhere to see to it that all who possess and exercise political rights shall have an opportunity to acquire that knowledge which will make their share in the Government a blessing and not a danger. By such means only can the benefits contemplated by this amendment to the Constitution be secured.

[Signed] U. S. GRANT.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, March 30, 1870.

HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State of the United States.

To all whom these presents may come, Greeting:

KNOW YE, That the Congress of the United States, on or about the 27th day of February, in the year 1869, passed a resolution in the words and figures following, to wit:

"A resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, two-thirds of both houses concurring, that the following article be proposed to the Legislatures, of the several States as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which, when ratified by three-fourths of said Legislatures, shall be valid as part of the constitution, namely:

"ARTICLE 15. Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or any State, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

"Section 2 Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

And further, that it appears from official documents on file in the Department, that the amendment to the Constitution of the United States, proposed as aforesaid, has been ratified by the Legislatures of the States of North Carolina, West Virginia, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Maine, Louisiana, Michigan, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, New York, New Hampshire, Nevada, Vermont, Missouri, Virginia, Alabama, Kansas, Mississippi, Minnesota, Ohio, Rhode Island, Nebraska and Texas, in all twenty-nine States. And further, that the States whose Legislatures have ratified said proposed amendment constitute three-fourths of the whole number of the States in the United States; and further that it appears from an official document on file in this Department that the Legislature of the State of New York has since passed resolutions claiming to withdraw said ratification of said amendment, which had been made by the Legislature of that State, and of which official notice had been filed in this Department; and further, that it appears from an official document on file in this Department that the Legislature of Georgia has by resolution ratified said proposed amendment.

Now, therefore, be it known that I, Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State of the United States, by virtue and in pursuance of the second section of an act of Congress approved on the 20th day of April, in the year 1818, entitled "an act to provide for the publication of the laws of the United States, and for other purposes," do hereby certify that the amendment aforesaid has become valid to all intents and purposes as a part of the Constitution of the United States.

In testimony, whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Department of State to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this 30th day of March, in the year of our Lord, 1870, and of the independence of the United States the 94th.

(Signed) HAMILTON FISH.

The Broad Top Iron Fields.

B. ANDREWS KNIGHT, Esq., President H. & B. T. R. R. Co.—Sir: I submit a little Map showing the Broad Top and Cumberland Coal Fields, and their relationships to the intervening iron ore territory.

The belt of iron ores flanking the Broad Top Coal Fields on the west, and extending from Huntingdon to the State line, belongs to and can be controlled by Broad Top interests. The main portion of it is alongside the Broad Top railroad, and will be smelted by coke from the Broad Top Field. The portion of this belt between Bloody Run and the State line—about fourteen miles of good ore—will be smelted at Bloody Run; the furnaces can be connected with the railroad by a short branch from the west end of River Bridge, when it shall be built. A tram road, with a small locomotive, will probably be used in conveying the iron ore and limestone to the furnaces.

It is a remarkable fact that the largest developments of iron ores flank the Broad Top Coal Field. Southward, up Black Valley, the regular line of Tussey's Mountain is broken up by Bean's Cove, near the State line; beyond this, the measures are irregular, and split into terminal hills, the iron ore thinning out and uncertain.

These surgent iron ores flanking Broad Top are again repeated in the loop curving round the valley in which the town of Bedford is situated. This belt of iron ore is rich and valuable, and has, to some extent, been secured by parties interested in Broad Top—The most valuable portion of this belt is near the town of Bedford, curving round the Dutch Corner, and throwing a double prong southward towards Cumberland. It is reasonable to infer that as the ore deposits go southward they will encounter, in a modified manner, the Bean Cove line of disturbances, declining in quantity and value.

Bedford, as a center for furnaces, will be in a position from which all the ores of that belt can be reached by lateral roads. With the extension of the Broad Top railroad to Bedford, the carrying of coal for iron smelting there, with the native trade of the district, will, in part, be secured to the Broad Top interests.

The third belt of iron ore, and the last in the series as it plunges under the Alleghanies, is found west of Bedford, flanking for quite a distance the proposed railroad from Bedford to Bridgeport — sixteen miles. That Broad Top should secure this connecting link, is an important consideration, in view of the rapidly growing interest in the iron ores, and the now eager pursuit of their acquisition in a region where pig metal can be manufactured at a small cost.

But there is another feature in this connection which will exert an important influence in the future operations of the Broad Top railroad. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company are now erecting a first-class Rolling Mill at Cumberland, to roll rails for their own road and its branches. This when in operation will induce an increased demand for good pig iron; and as the Mount Savage Iron Works is running mainly on the carbonate iron ores of the Coal Measures, they will undoubtedly reach out for the rich fossil ore along the Bridgeport link.—This connection will therefore be made if only for the supply of iron ore that it will open up, and the passenger trade to Bedford Springs. The road from Bedford to Bridgeport can be graded as cheaply as the link from Mount Dallas to Bedford.

But if this link is made as a branch of the B. & O. Railroad the operations in Cumberland coal will be ready to compete at Bedford with the Broad Top. This competition would neutralize, to some extent, the benefits to Broad Top, by the extension of the Road from Mount Dallas to Bedford. With the Bedford and Bridgeport division in its charge, however, it could regulate and entirely control all competition from outside parties.

It seems to me that with the well-defined amount of mineral resources presented in this intervening territory, and the sure source of trade which must follow its manufacture, that it is of sufficient importance to induce those connected with the Broad Top interest to lose no time in securing a position to command the carrying trade of this wide field of productive industry, that will be so much in addition to the business and tonnage lying more immediately on the line of your road.

The owners of coal lands and shippers of Broad Top coal should also feel a deep interest in securing a home market for a portion of this coal, at least, thus supplementing the trade, and measurably removing the sharp competition now existing in the Eastern Coal Market.

A furnace of the size of that at Riddlesburg will consume in a year 22,000 tons of coal, 8,500 tons of limestone, and 20,000 tons of iron ore, producing 7,500 to 8,000 tons of pig iron. Twenty furnaces would require 440,000 tons of coal annually. It is now decided that at least two additional furnaces will be erected on the line of your road this season, with the probability that two more will be commenced before the close of the year.

The loop of iron ore around Bedford contains four millions of tons, calculating the rich fossiliferous ores only, and the Western line or range, three millions of tons. The developments during the past year, of the three bands of iron ore deposits flanking the Broad Top Coal Field, have exhibited the presence of almost inexhaustible quantities of iron ore. It is 20 feet 1 inch thick, near Coffee Run, in a compact seam of almost pure ore. This—the Levant iron ore—has been tested, and is now being used in the Cambria Company's furnaces at Johnstown.—The Hematite and Fossiliferous iron ores of the lower deposits, have been opened and worked at many points in the region, yielding superior ore and showing unusual thickness in the deposits.

Calculations made with great care, from reliable data, show that in the three large deposits of iron ore flanking the Broad Top Coal Field on the west, estimated to a depth conveniently reached above water level, there are at least five hundred millions of tons of coal. The extension of the main line of the railroad to Bedford and a branch up Black Valley will develop large additional quantities of iron ore.

The pre arrangement evident in the topography of the region for the concentration of the iron ores, fuel and flux, on the neutral line of gravity, along the railroad and river base, is truly remarkable, for the belt of the iron ore and the Coal Field are notched, at short intervals, by the valleys and streams, transversely to their length, so that locations are opened for gravitating the iron ores and fuel to the furnace sites along the railroad and river.

Nor is this new and wide field of productive industry shadowed by a single element of doubt, for sufficient practical work has been done in it to settle definitely and conclusively all considerations of Coal, Coke, Iron ores and Flux. They have all been proved to be of excellent quality, and the fact exhibited that a superior pig iron can be made in this region somewhat cheaper than any other locality in the State.

The outlying and detached position of the Broad Top Coal Field, has frequently led inquiring minds to investigate the design of its isolated posture, standing among and surrounded by the bold and frequent flexures of the Juniata District. The recent developments of immense deposits of iron ore, the frequent recurrence of their outcrops as they rise and sink in these wave flexures, suggest the connecting link; and the answer is evident: The Broad Top Mountain is a storehouse of mineral fuel, set out in the midst of a region rich in iron ores lying at the base of the Coal Mountain. The flames from one large furnace glare up like ancient signal fires, announcing that the design in the deposition of the ores and fuel is understood. Other furnaces will rapidly rise up and answer this signal, until the wide valley flanking the Coal Field will glitter with the fires of furnaces dotted along its length, and resound with the din of an industry so long neglected and restrained.

Altoona Building and Loan Associations are in a prosperous condition.

An inquiry. Who is the coming man? The fellow what takes incomes.

A calf was killed in Centre county recently which weighed 1096 pounds.

A wonderful mirror that would make could the sands of Time be made to reflect.

All fashionable ladies are expected to wear frogs and toads hanging by one leg, as ear-drops.

A few of our storekeepers are giving out hard money, otherwise denominated specie. Oughtn't they to be arrested?

As Court commences next week, we hope our delinquents will give us a call and honor our bills.

A 500 pound hog was won by Maj. Wm. Williams, of this place, at a recent shooting match in Altoona.

Advocates of woman's rights have no good criterion in the fact that two women burglars were arrested in Erie last week.

A meeting of the Presbytery of Huntingdon will occur here on Tuesday next. A large number of ministers are expected.

Another accident from coal oil. Catharine McQuillen, of Bellefonte, was so badly burned recently that her life is despaired of.

Another rage for ladies is to have fans made in the shape of pistols and daggers. These belong to the romantic novel-readers.

A silk hat was recently presented to the editor of the Bellefonte Republican. Wonder if it will require a "brick" for ballast!

"Apples swim." Rohrer and McAteer in the House, voted for the $9,500,000 swindle, as also did Robinson and McIntyre, in the Senate. How much for high?

Alexandria has sent Col. John S. Miller to take charge of the Exchange Hotel in this place, and Mapleton has sent Mr. John Dean to play the agreeable at the Washington.

A little girl in Germantown who was obliged to study a hard lesson, was seized with brain fever, and soon died. The parents, perhaps, wanted to make her smart.

April 1st, Friday, was a wet day, and many articles of furniture were weeping that they were leaving their old shelter. Some of the bedding was washed but not cleaned.

Alas for the flitters! was the exclamation last week on seeing so many of our people packing traps and moving to new homes. Some of the horses had to pull more than they ought.

A few live "Yankees" are in Huntingdon. We need a number more to drive old fogies where the woodbine twineth and nothing but the sound of birds is heard and industry does not prosper.

At a recent Sunday School meeting a young man made a motion that they appoint a committee of ladies and gentlemen to raise children for the Sunday School—the girls objected.—Ex.

A friend invited the editor of the Juniata Sentinel to ride behind a "span of high spirited nags." He accepted the invitation and the direful consequence was he—wrote a half column on the trip, that's all.

Aristocratic skunks, foxes and sich, go to the counties that pay the highest premiums for their skunks. So it would appear from the fact that a man in Bedford county presented the scalps of one hundred and fifteen skunks within two months.

All-Fool's day was observed by the fools generally in telling lies and fooling their friends. We don't know how many were fooled on Friday, but we do know that many of our citizens have been fooled for several weeks past with bad butter.

A one-legged game called "Hop-Scotch" is not popular among the children in this borough. Neither is "Duck and Davy," but on "Knuckle Down Tight" our boys can't be beat, nor can our girls be beat on "Skip the Rope." Just come and see if they can.

A young man, seeing a young lady passing on one of the streets of our borough, was told by his friend, "There's a good chance for somebody." The other asked, "How much to back her?" when his friend pulled out his plug of tobacco and gave it to him, thinking that was what he asked for. What a language!

Ah! "Let us have peace!" Our friend Corbman of the Monitor, stated last week that it is rumored that a certain doctor told us we had an overdose of the Fifteenth amendment. An over-dose will not hurt us, and so long as our head is safe from any physical applications by female Fifteenths, we will not fear any danger.

Sad Catastrophe.

Two Men Drowned.—About 8 o'clock on Saturday morning last, two of our citizens named David Westbrook and John Hoffman, went to the Juniata river and got a skiff for the purpose of hunting some outlines that they had set in the river. They got in the boat above the Broad Top Railroad bridge, and pushed out into stream a short distance, when the current, which was high from recent rains and running at the rate of about six miles an hour, swept their skiff against the trestle-work of the bridge with great force, throwing them both into the stream, and breaking the boat. The unfortunate men, seeing their danger, called piteously for help, when a number of persons near the river came to the shore, ready to do anything that could be done to save them. But they were too far out in the stream for anything to be done, and the planks which were thrown in were swept to the shore before the men could reach them. Westbrook went under first, when about a hundred feet from the shore, and Hoffman swam to within fifty feet of the shore and was in high hopes of reaching it when, in making an effort to get off his hat, he also sank and was drowned. Both the men could swim, but it is supposed that the clothing they had on and the extreme coldness of the water, cramped them before they could get near enough to be saved.

The news of the sad affair was soon spread through the town and the shore was lined with people, endeavoring to catch a glimpse of the bodies, but they did not rise after they sank; and it is supposed they were swept by the current some distance down the stream. Hoffman leaves a wife and three children, and Westbrook a wife. Both were industrious men, Hofiman being a painter, and Westbrook a brick moulder. The former had the day before moved into a new home. The families of the unfortunate men should receive the sympathy of our people and not be left to want.

Another Hanlon.

We did not believe that there could be found near Huntingdon a man so void of decency and honor as to attempt the committing of an outrage equal to that of Hanlon, the murderer of little Mary Mohrmann in Philadelphia, but the following incident convinces us that there is one such villain in or near our borough: On Monday morning last, a little girl aged about 13 years, and named Amanda Heffner, daughter of Mr. Isaac Heffner, came in the cars from Mill Creek, and stopped in town for the purpose of getting a conveyance to go to her home in Juniata township. She staid for some time near the new bridge, awaiting a wagon, but none coming she walked down railroad street, and amused herself by looking in at windows of the stores. It was while looking at some pictures in front of a photograph gallery, that a tall, villainous looking man with sandy whiskers, approached her, and asked her to take a walk to the woods. The girl looked up at him and seeing that he was an entire stranger, she refused to go with him, and left him. She came up the main street, and seeing that the scamp still followed her she went into a store, where he also entered. The trembling girl staid in the store until he left, when she ran to the house of Mr. Pollock in West Huntingdon. She remained here but a short time after telling her story, when she was put on the track of a wagon that was going in the direction of her home. The villain must have lost sight of her, for it was not long after she had left the house that he came to the fence and stood and looked for her; but not seeing her he left. Mrs. Pollock then told the affair to some workmen near, who started in search of the scoundrel, but not until he had got out of sight.

Burglaries.

On Thursday night last, the stores of Jacob Africa, Jacob Leonard and Benjamin Jacobs were entered by burglars. Africa and Leonard missed but a few dollars in small change, but the thieves stole several suits of clothes from Jacobs' store. The object of the burglars was money, either from the money drawer or safe. The tools they used were a large and a small bar of iron, with which they pried the doors open. Steward's jewelry store was tried but the thieves did not get in.—Suspicions rest upon two men, one large the other small, who had been seen loitering about the stores the day before, and if they should come back to Huntingdon, if they have the meanness to do so, we hope they will be placed in durance vile.

Floods.

The Juniata river, and neighboring streams, were flooded last week, and reached the greatest height on Saturday morning last. The river must have been eight feet high, and although not as high as in some former years, yet the loss of two lives which occurred makes it the most disastrous flood that has ever happened here.

Mill Creek, we learn, was also very high, and the flood carried away a portion of a bridge and some timber and shingles near the bank.

ATTEMPT AT HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—It is rumored that an attempt at highway robbery was made one night last week upon Mr. Robt. Decker, a young man who resides below town. He was going home, and when near the gas house he was stopped by a man, who demanded his money. Decker struck him with his fist and fled, when another man approached him, but he passed him and went on his way unmolested.

This is not the first case of this kind that we have heard of, but we think enough crime has been committed recently within our limits to warrant our borough authorities to establish night police.

☞ And Joseph wept aloud and he said unto his brethren: "I am Joseph; does my father yet live?" And his brethren answered him, "You bet!" The old man is doing bully, for he buys his hardware from A. R. Stewart & Co., at the sign of the big Padlock. ap5-1t

The Huntingdon Academy.

The winter term of the Huntingdon Academy, under the charge of Prof. James A Stephens, closed on Friday, 18th ult., an exhibition being held in the evening. As quiet as it is kept, we believe, from the observation we have made, that this school is admirably conducted, and that the progress of the scholars is sure and thorough. Prof. Stephens is an earnest and conscientious instructor—loving his work, and loved in return by those for whom he works.

The exercises on Friday evening embraced declamations by the boys, original essays by the girls, and dialogues by both sexes; and the awarding of premiums at the close. A committee of citizens had examined the penmanship of the scholars on Thursday and awarded four premiums; but as the awards were made with great difficulty, on account of the marked improvement in the writing of so many of the pupils, we deem it best not to mention any names in this connection. Where all have done so well, all deserve and should receive credit.

To say that we were pleased with the exhibition is to express our feelings mildly. The boys, in their declamations, acquitted themselves remarkably well—some of them giving sure evidence of becoming fine public speakers. James M. Plunnett is one of the most easy, graceful boys upon the stage that we ever saw; John D. Dorris, for his years, spoke like an orator and a hero; Thomas F. Miller, with stronger voice, caught the entiment of his speech, and alike in gesture and in emphasis, brought out its full meaning; J. K. Cannon, with his warm, bright face, spoke finely for one so young, and G. W. Sanderson, of riper years, delivered "Voices of the Dead" with decided effect. Others did well, but we cannot refer to them in detail.

The dialogues were well chosen and were admirably performed. W. H. Smith deserves most favorable mention in this line, as he "spoke his piece" with true wit and humor. And Thettie Stephens, a little girl of tender years, performed her part most charmingly.

The girls (or should we say, the young ladies?) will take a word of criticism from us kindly. All the essays were creditable, and some of them were excellent; but many of them were not well read. The girls at our schools almost universally read too low. They talk loud enough, but when on the stage, their voices seem to leave them. Speak out, girls. Many a flower, you know, "is born to blush unseen, and waste its fragrance on the desert air;" but you were not. When you have something good to say, as many of you had on this occasion, say it so that you can be heard. We feel tempted to mention the names of a few of the young ladies who, in our judgment, read essays of decided merit but perhaps the better course is to let this general notice suffice.

At the conclusion of the exercises, the boys presented a Silver Pitcher to Mr. Stephens, and the girls a beautiful Caster to Mrs. Stephens. Both were received with a touching expression of thanks.

OBSERVER.

APRIL 1ST.—Although April 1st, 1870, has come and gone, we may or we may not live to see another. This day, as is well known among country people, is the grand moving day. Unfortunately for the superstitious ones, it this year fell on Friday, and still more unluckily for the moving ones it was a wet, drizzly, ugly day. Some, for convenience sake, moved their "all on earth" on Thursday, while others put off until Friday, Saturday and even till Monday, not saying anything of the general fixing up that might have been done on Sunday.

April 1st is a bad day for some, and a good day for others; but of the latter class there may be few; but if we take the adage that "it is an ill wind that blows nobody any good," there may be many. Houses, and money, that great god of too many, changes owners, and happy are they who get their own. What a good time it is, then, for a general squaring up of accounts with those with whom you have dealings, and what a good season for our delinquents to do likewise?

To the President and Members of the Sewing Circle of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church: Ladies: My brethren of the Vestry have, I am happy to say, assigned to me the pleasant task of acknowledging your kind efforts in behalf of the little church of which we are the guardians. In a very short time you have, by your zeal, energy and industry, had the inside walls of the church improved by two coats of whiting, new carpets laid in the chancel, vestibule and gallery; new velvet trimmings to the reading desk and pulpit, and new cushions for the chairs of the Bishop and clergy; the whole at a cost of over one hundred dollars. For all these kind deeds we tender to you, in our own name and in behalf of the Parish we represent, our most sincere and grateful thanks. Nor are we unmindful of our rural friends, the family of Mr. Germain. To their unaided efforts is due the beautiful appearance of our church on Christmas. They bought the pine, the boxwood and the laurel, and placed it gracefully on the walls and around the chancel to beautify the Lord's sanctuary. May God bless you, ladies, and your noble works.

Very respectfully,
F. B. WALLACE, Warden.

All our cotemporaries are complaining of bad roads. We think they are extremely lucky if they even get a chance to travel on any kind of a road. 'Tis not so hereaway. We hear it said, however, that the roads are bad, and poor Dame Nature has to take the blame, (men always blame the women,) when, if the Supervisors would attend to the roads at the proper time, we would not hear such complaints.

Accidents occurred last week to a few pedestrians who walked against some stones and bricks that were lying on the pavement. It is a difficult matter on a misty night for a sober person to navigate between some of the projecting porches and the curbstones, and the wonder is that we have not heard of more mishaps. Our borough fathers need to be more careful of us children.

Huntingdon is honored by the arrival of two families from Berks county. That's not saying, however, that they are Democrats.

DIED,

On the 20th ult., MARION, infant son of Marshal and Mary Decker, aged 1 year and 16 days. On the 26th ult., ANNIE, their infant daughter, aged 3 years and 17 days.

"They are sleeping; who are sleeping?
Children wearied with their play.
Underneath the flowrets creeping,
Softly sleeping, here are they."

March 31st ult., Mrs. CATHARINE ZEIGLER, wife of Wm. B. Zeigler, aged 53 years.

In the death of this good woman her family and those with whom she had intercourse, have met a loss that will ever be felt, and sincerely mourned. She was a christian, having belonged to the M. E. Church from her youth. Her hands were always busy in the duties of life, or in acts of kindness when opportunity afforded; always humble and in the love of our Saviour. Her suffering was long and severe, but she never murmured at her affliction, and when she become satisfied she could no longer be useful to her family or society, she was anxious to depart and be at rest.

At the residence of John Truax, in Mapleton borough, on the 21st March, 1870, his son-in-law, NATHAN EVERETT, in the 92d year of his age.

The deceased was a native of Virginia, and removed to this county about forty years ago. He was a member of the Baptist church in which connection he preached for many years, though his body was nearly doubled by the weight of many years, his health was remarkably good and he spoke of living many years, until within three days of his death. In his last illness he retained his rationality and consciousness to the last moment of his life, as exhibited by the calmness and satisfaction in which he watched the approaches of death, by feeling his pulse, examining the changes in the color of his finger nails and his assured willingness to depart this life, and be at peace, in a manner rarely equal, perhaps never excelled. WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY HORACE GREELEY.

IX.

PLANTING AND GROWING TREES.

Whoever has recently bought, inherited, or otherwise become the owner of a farm, has usually found some part or parts of it devoted to wood; and this, if not in excess, he will mainly preserve, while he studies and plans with a view to the ultimate devotion to timber of just those portions of his land that are best adapted to that use. In locating his timber, I would have him consider these suggestions:

I. Land wisely planted with trees and fenced so far as need be to keep out cattle, costs nothing. Whatever else you grow involves labor and expenditure; trees grow of their own accord. You may neglect them utterly—may wander over the earth and be absent for ten or twenty years, while your fences decay and your fields are overcropped to exhaustion; even your meadows may be run out by late mowing and close feeding at both ends of the season, till a dozen acres will hardly subsist a span of horses and a cow; but your woods need only to be let alone to insure that their value shall have decidedly increased during your absence. They will richly reward labor and care in thinning, trimming, and transplanting—you may profitably employ in them any time that you can spare them—but they will do very well if simply let alone. And, unlike any other product with which I am acquainted, you may take crop after crop of wood from the same lot, and the soil will be richer and more productive after the last than it was before the first. Whether wholly because their roots permeate and break up the soil during their life and enrich it in their decay, or for diverse reasons, it is certainly true that land—and especially poor land—is enriched by growing upon it a crop of almost any timber, the evergreens possibly excepted. So, should you ever have land that you cannot till to profit, whether because it is too poor, or because you have a sufficiency that is better, you should at once devote it to wood.

II. Your springs and streams will be rendered more equable and enduring by increasing the area and the luxuriance of your timber. They may have become scanty and capricious under a policy of reckless, wholesale destruction of trees; they will be reënforced and reinvigorated by doubling the area of your woods, while quadrupling the number, and increasing the average size of your trees.

III. All ravines and steep hill-sides should be devoted to trees. Every acre too rocky to be thoroughly cleared of stone and plowed should be set apart for tree-growing. Wherever the soil will be gullied or washed away by violent rains if under tillage, it should be excluded from cultivation and given up to trees. Men often doubt the profit of heavy manuring, and well they may, if three fourths of the fertilizers applied are soaked out and swept away by flooding rains or sudden thaws and floated off to some distant sea or bay; but let all that is applied to the soil only remain there till it is carted away in crops and it will hardly be possible to manure too highly for profit.

IV. Trees, especially evergreens, may be so disposed as to modify agreeably the average temperature of your farm, or at least of the most important parts of it. When I bought my place—or rather the first installment of it, the best spot I could select for a garden lay at the foot of a hill which half surrounded it on the south and east, leaving it exposed to the full sweep of north and north-west winds; so that, though the soil was gravelly and warm, my garden was likely to be cold and backward. To remedy this, I planted four rows of evergreens (Balsam Fir, Pine, Red Cedar, and Hemlock,) along a low ridge bounding it on the north, following an inward curve of the ridge at its west end; and those evergreens have in sixteen years grow into very considerable trees, forming a shady, cleanly, inviting bower, or sylvan retreat, daintily carpeted with the fallen leaves of the overhanging firs. I judge that the average temperature of the soil for some yards southward of this wind break is at least five degrees higher, throughout the growing season, than it formerly was or would now be if these evergreens were swept away; while the aspect of the place is agreeably diversified, and even beautified, by their appearance. I believe it would sell for some hundreds of dollars more with than without that thrifty, growing clump of evergreens.

V. I have already urged, though not enough, that crops, as well as springs, will be improved by keeping the crests of ridges thickly wooded, thus depositing moisture in Winter and Spring to be slowly yielded to the subjacent slopes during the heat and drouth of Summer. I firmly believe that the slopes of a hill whose crest is heavily wooded will yield larger average crops than slope and crest together would do if both were bare of trees.

VI. The banks of considerable streams, ponds, &c., may often be so planted with trees that these will shade more water than land, to the comfort and satisfaction of the fish, and the protection of those banks from abrasion by floods and rapid currents. Sycamore, Elm, and Willow, do well here; if good Grape-Vines are set beside and allowed to run over some of them, the effect is good, and the grapes acceptable to man and bird.

VII. Never forget that a good tree grows as thriftily and surely as a poor one. Many a farmer has to day ten to forty acres of indifferent cord-wood where he might at a very slight cost, have had instead an equal quantity of choice timber, worth ten times as much. Hickory, Chesnut, and Walnut, while they yield nuts that can be eaten or sold, are worth far more as timber than an equal bulk of Beech, Birch, Hemlock, or Red Oak. Chesnut has more than doubled in value within the last few years, mainly because it had been found excellent for the inside wood-works of dwellings. Locusts also seems to be increasing in value. Ten acres of large, thrifty Locusts near this City would now buy a pretty good farm; as I presume it would, if located near any of our great cities.

VIII. Where several good varieties of Timber are grown together, some insects or atmospheric trouble may blast one of them, yet leave the residue alive and hearty. And, if all continue thrifty, some may be cut out and sold, leaving others more room to grow and rapidly attain a vigorous maturity.

IX. Wherever timber has become scarce and valuable, a wood lot should be thinned out, nevermore cleared off, unless it is to be devoted to a different use. It seems to me that destroying a forest because we want timber is like smothering a hive of bees because we want honey.

X. Timber should be cut with intelligent reference to the future. Locust and other valuable trees that it is desirable should throw up shoots from the stump, and rapidly reproduce their kind, should be cut in March or April; while trees that you want to exterminate should be cut in August, so that they may not sprout. There may be exceptions to this rule; but I do not happen to recollect any. Evergreens do not sprout; and I think these should be cut in Winter—at all events, not in spring, when full of sap and thus prone to rapid decay.

I may have more to say of trees by-and-by, but rest here for the present. The importance of the topic can hardly be overrated.

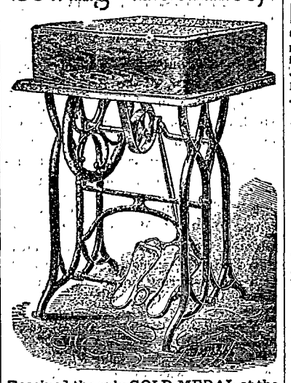
WHEELER & WILSON'S

HIGHEST PREMIUM

LOCK STITCH

Sewing Machines,



Received the only GOLD MEDAL at the PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.

They are adapted to all kinds of Family Sewing and to the use of Seamstresses, Dressmakers, Tailors, Manufacturers of Shirts, Collars, Skirts, Cloaks, Mantillas, Clothing, Hats, Caps, Corsets, Linen Goods, Umbrellas, Parasols, etc. They work equally well upon silk, linen, woolen and cotton goods, with silk, cotton or linen thread. They will seam, quilt, gather, hem, fell, cord, braid, bind, and perform every species of sewing, making a beautiful and perfect stitch, alike on both sides of the article sewed.

The qualities which recommend them are:
1. Beauty and excellence of stitch, alike on both sides of the fabric sewed.
2. Strength, firmness and durability of seam, that will not rip nor ravel.
3 Economy of Thread.
4. Attachments and wide range of application to purposes and materials.
5. Compactness and elegance of model and finish.
6. Simplicity and thoroughness of construction.
7. Speed, ease of operation and management, and quietness of movement.

Instructions free to all. Machines kept in repair one year free of charge.

McGUIRE'S

SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR, And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries. No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S

Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, when using and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from any thing of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S

WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath, should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and appealing manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them. Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Dealers will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canada. Address orders to

GET THE BEST

READY ROOFING

Suitable for all Buildings, Dwellings, Barns, Churches Factories, &c., and for all climates; equally adapted to flat or steep roofs, and can be applied by any ordinary workman.

THE READY ROOFING

Is more durable than tin, and does not cost one-half as much. It is cheaper than shingles, far more durable, and fire-proof. It is made of the heaviest fabric ever used for the purpose, and is put up in rolls ready for shipment to any part of the world. Send for circular and samples (sent free.)

We also manufacture

GRANITE CEMENT,

For repairing all kinds of leaky roofs, chimneys, sky lights, &c. This Roofing Cement forms a permanent adhesive coating over the whole surface of all roofs, whether tin, shingle or composition, completely closing up leakages, and being composed largely of ground granite, which sets and hardens, and soon becomes an artificial Slate or Stone covering.

ROOF PAINT,

For coating Tin and all kinds of metal and composition roofs. It will not run, crack, or peel off, but form a permanent and perfect protection, wherever placed. It is furnished at half the cost, and possesses twice the durability of the common oil paints used for such purposes.
